- 1995 Research Assistant, Hirsch/Liebel Laboratory, Rockefeller University. Sponsor: Dr. Rudolf Liebel. •Primary investigator in the mapping of a NIDDM gene believed to be associated with obesity.
- 1994 Research Assistant, Laboratory of Addictive Diseases, Rockefeller University. Sponsor: Dr. Mary Jean Kreek. •Primary investigator on the pathophysiology of opioid and cocaine addiction and methods of detoxification

IRB'S- Approved

- 13745# Bacteriology of pediatric neck abscesses.
- 13150# Laryngomalacia and sleep disordered breathing in children
- 14251# Improvements in sleep disordered breathing after cardiac surgery in pediatric patients with congenital heart malformations.
- 14528# Dysphagia after supraglottoplasty
- 14715# Safety and outcomes after adenotonsillectomy in children less than 24 months of age
- 14716# Progression of respiratory papillomas in children when treated with repeated debridement and intralesional injection of Cidofovir (5mg/ml)
- 14717# Outcomes after posterior cricoids augmentation in the management of isolated glottic stenosis in children
- 14889# Treatment of laryngomalacia in the setting of vocal cord dysfunction
- 14902# Successful non-surgical management of congenital pyriform stenosis using ophthalmic dexamethasone drops
- 14904# Botulinum toxin therapy of laryngeal musculature in children undergoing revision laryngotracheal reconstruction
- 15281# Indications and predictive parameters for the surgical closure of a congenitally widened Interarytenoid space for the treatment of aspiration in children
- 15287# Endoscopic coblation of advanced juvenile nasopharyngeal angiofibroma
- 15414# Benefits of ultrasound vs. computed tomography imaging in the diagnosis of lateral neck abscesses in children

Submitted not assigned: The effects of pre-, peri-, and post operative ambient temperature on core body temperature in pediatric patients undergoing short ORL procedures.
